For 20 years, the U.S. Green Building Council-Los Angeles Chapter (USGBC-LA) has fostered a community of enthusiastic thought leaders, sustainability professionals, subject-matter experts, students, educators, and advocates who are passionate about inspiring and accelerating change that achieves a greener, more equitable built environment.

Our members are at the heart of the work we do. Your membership with us will provide opportunities to broaden your industry knowledge, take a journey of personal and professional growth, and connect with others who share the same passions for sustainably transforming our built environment.

Develop Your Passions
- Guide our focus and collective community impact through participation in our program advisory groups.
- Serve in a leadership position on our Board of Directors, committees, or branches.
- Gain access to our technical resources, training portfolio, member marketing toolkits, recorded content, and research publications.

Be an Advocate
- Make your voice heard as a conduit for climate activism in your community by joining a committee or branch.
- Influence local and regional policy-making through your professional expertise.

Connect + Collaborate With Others
- Access our community of thought leaders, subject matter experts, and sustainability professionals through our online collaboration platform and searchable Member Directory.
- Receive discounted or complimentary registration to all USGBC-LA events.
- Connect and network with other USGBC-LA Members at quarterly members-only events.

Empower the Next Generation of Sustainability Leaders
- Invest in diversifying and guiding a pipeline of future leaders, changemakers, and a greener workforce through participation in our mentorship program as a mentor or mentee.
- Share your knowledge and expertise by facilitating and co-hosting webinars and training with the USGBC-LA chapter.
- Commit to educating and developing the emerging workforce.
